Dr. Janet Reid is an Associate Professor of Clinical Radiology at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Reid’s prime area of interest is disruptive innovation for education. She created the Cleveland Clinic pediatric radiology educational website with more than 35,000 registrants from 75 countries worldwide. As Director of Radiology Education Research at The Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia, her team evaluates current learning strategies, identifies gaps, and develops innovative solutions housed in a multifaceted Learning Management System (LMS). Her current focus is validation of teaching solutions and development of adaptive learning. Areas of clinical interest are body MRI and oncologic imaging.
